Revision of Dividend Forecast Accompanying Consolidation of Shares

In accordance with a proposal concerning consolidation of shares (reverse stock split) determined at the 92nd ordinary general meeting of shareholders held today, Sumitomo Metal Mining Co., Ltd. is revising the dividend forecast released on May 11, 2017, as noted below.

1. Reasons for revision of the dividend forecast

A proposal for consolidation of its common shares at the rate of one share for every two shares effective October 1, 2017 was brought before the 92nd ordinary general meeting of shareholders held today. This proposal was approved and determined without modification.

In accordance with this determination, the forecast for the year-end dividend amount per share in the year ending March 31, 2018 taking the days after effectuation of the consolidation of shares as the base days will be doubled, in correspondence with the rate of consolidation of shares.

The aforementioned forecast revision adjusts the forecast amount of dividend per share accompanying the consolidation of shares, and does not constitute any substantive change in the dividend forecast.

In the table below, a dash is placed in the box for the total dividend per share because it was not possible to simply add the amounts for the dividend at the end of the second quarter and for the year-end dividend, owing to the difference in the “one share” serving as the basis of calculation.

2. Details of the revision

	Dividend per share (JPY)
	Q2-end	Year-end	Full-year
Previous forecast (Released on May 11, 2017)	17.00	18.00	35.00
Revised forecast	*1 17.00	*2 36.00	—
Current year result	—	—	—

Reference: FY2016 (actual)	5.00	6.00	11.00

*1 The mid-term dividend at the end of the second quarter of the year ending on March 31, 2018 will take the days before effectuation of the consolidation of shares as its base days, and therefore will be based on shares before the consolidation.

*2 The dividend at the end of the year ending on March 31, 2018 will take the days after effectuation of the consolidation of shares as its base days, and therefore will be based on shares after the consolidation.

Note: The dividend forecast values noted in the table above may change due to the workings of various factors in the remainder of the year.
