* Proper use of earnings forecasts, and other special directions

(Proper use of earnings forecasts)

The forward-looking statements, including earnings forecasts, contained in these materials are based on certain assumptions deemed to be reasonable by the Company and its subsidiaries (“the Company Group”) and include risks and contingencies. Actual business results may differ substantially due to a number of factors. For more details, please refer to the section of “(iii) Outlook for the year ending December 31, 2019 of (1) Overview of operating results in Operating results and financial position” on page 6.

Operating results and financial position

(1) Overview of operating results

(i) Overview of the fiscal year under review (from January 1, 2018 to December 31, 2018)

In the global economy, the US economy gradually recovered on the back of solid employment conditions and robust personal consumption. On the other hand, in Europe and China, a stronger perception of economic slowdown was recognized. The Japanese economy continued to make a modest recovery, driven by improved employment conditions and personal consumption. In this environment, in the fiscal year ended December 31, 2018 (from January 1 to December 31, 2018), shipments of substrate glass for liquid crystal display (LCDs) were solid. In glass fiber for high-performance resin, the US subsidiary (Electric Glass Fiber America: EGFA) that the Company acquired in September, 2017 contributed to higher sales despite a decline in demand in the second half of the fiscal year. As a result, sales exceeded the levels in the previous fiscal year (from January 1 to December 31, 2017). On the other hand, profit was down over the previous fiscal year. This reflected the impact of the factors including rising prices for raw materials and fuel, up-front costs related to production capacity increase, etc. at EGFA and Electric Glass (Xiamen), as well as a shortfall in EGFA's productivity relative to initial forecasts, and foreign exchange losses.

Total		282.4	100	300.3	100	17.8	6

(Net sales)

Electronics and Information Technology:

Shipments of substrate glass for LCDs were solid, although prices fell slightly. Sales of cover glass for mobile devices (glass for chemical strengthening) also remained strong on the back of increasing adoption by customers. Glass for electronic devices grew moderately in line with trend in the home appliance market and glass for optical devices generally performed well, with the exception of certain products. However, sales of substrate glass for solar cells remained weak.

Performance Materials and Others:

Sales of glass fiber for high-performance resin reflected the impact of slower demand in the fourth quarter (from October 1 to December 31, 2018), especially in the European and Chinese markets, despite the positive sales contribution of EGFA. Overall sales of heat-resistant glass remained weak, being continuously affected by inventory adjustments at some customers, while shipments to China of glass tubing for pharmaceutical and medical use showed growth, and sales of glass for building materials remained favorable for fire-rated equipment.

(Profit/loss)

In this fiscal year, with prices for raw material and fuel rising, up-front costs were incurred for construction related to productivity improvement and production capacity increase at EGFA, and for the establishment of new facilities at Electric Glass (Xiamen). In addition, a shortfall in productivity at EGFA compared with initial forecasts and its goodwill amortization put downward pressure on operating profit. Ordinary profit was affected mainly by foreign exchange losses attributable to the revaluation of receivables and payables related to loans to certain overseas subsidiaries. Conversely, reversal of provision for special repairs, gain on sales of investment securities, and gain on revision of retirement benefit plan at a subsidiary in the Netherlands (Electric Glass Fiber NL: EGFN) resulted in extraordinary income. However, extraordinary losses were recorded for loss on suspension of production facilities, etc., and profit was also affected by deferred tax accounting. As a result, operating profit, ordinary profit and profit attributable to owners of parent were all down over the previous fiscal year.

(iii) Outlook for the year ending December 31, 2019

(Billions of yen)

	Six months ending June 30, 2019	Year ending December 31, 2019
Net sales	145.0	305.0
Operating profit	10.0	25.0
Ordinary profit	9.0	22.0
Profit attributable to owners of parent	8.0	18.0

Notes: Amounts less than 100 million yen are omitted.

The outlook for the global economy is becoming more uncertain, given problems such as the trade dispute between the US and China, and an economic slowdown in Europe and China. On the other hand, although consideration must be given to the impact of overseas factors, the Japanese economy is expected to maintain a modest recovery, backed by continued improvements in the employment and income environment.

Given this environment, in the Electronics and Information Technology segment, we expect moderate growth in shipments of substrate glass for LCDs for the full year, despite a slow start reflecting subdued demand at the beginning of the fiscal year. In glass for electronic devices and for optical devices, we will take advantage of growth in a wide range of markets such as home appliances, automobiles, and telecommunications infrastructure. In the Performance Materials and Others segment, demand for glass fiber is weak at present, primarily in the European and Chinese markets, but we will take prompt action to respond to trends in demand, improving productivity at EGFA and strengthening production capacity at EGFN in order to grow sales. With regard to heat-resistant glass, we will work to take in domestic and overseas demand primarily for top plates of cooking appliances, and we will take steps to respond to the increased demand for glass tubing for pharmaceutical and medical use in China, which remains a growth market. With regard to glass for building materials, we will focus on sales for fire-rated equipment. In terms of profit/loss, lower product pricing and higher prices for raw material and fuel may have an adverse impact on profit, but we will remain committed to enhancing profitability through productivity improvements and cost cut initiatives.

In light of the above outlook, the Company Group's forecasts for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2019 are as shown in the table above.

The forward-looking statements, including earnings forecasts, contained in these materials are based on certain assumptions deemed to be reasonable by the Company Group and include risks and contingencies. Actual business results may differ substantially due to a number of factors. Factors that may impact actual business results include the economic conditions of global markets, various rules and regulations such as those concerning trade, significant fluctuation of supply and demand of products in principal markets as well as the financial situation showing extensive changes in prices on capital markets, exchange rates, and interest rates, in addition to rapid technological advancement. Factors not mentioned here also could have a significant impact on business results.

The Company acquired treasury shares of 9,999 million yen as a return to shareholders. The valuation difference on available-for-sale securities and foreign currency translation adjustments decreased.

(Cash flows from investing activities)

Net cash used in investing activities in this fiscal year was 19,551 million yen (a decrease of 49,093 million yen compared to the previous year). (Cash flows from financing activities)

Some short-term loans were repaid. Some long-term loans were also repaid while there were proceeds from long-term loans payable. Purchase of treasury shares incurred. In addition, the Company paid dividends to shareholders and dividends to non-controlling interests of subsidiaries.
