No. 10 <Surging> Recommendations to visit Da Nang

February and March mark the beginning of the dry season in Da Nang, with daytime temperatures around 25–28°C (77–82°F). This pleasant, not-too-hot weather makes it the most popular and ideal season for outdoor sightseeing at Marble Mountains and Ba Na Hills, exploring the city, and visiting World Heritage sites. Additionally, the arrival of March marks the beginning of the season ideal for swimming. During the Lunar New Year period in February, be mindful of store closures and crowds, but the Dragon Bridge's light display becomes even more spectacular, and vibrant cultural experiences abound.
